

Jussi HÄTÖNEN

Economist

Digital Economy and Education Division
European Investment Bank (EIB)

Jussi Hätönen is an Economist in the Digital Economy and Education Division of the European Investment Bank (EIB). His current work relates to financing versatile projects in the information and communications industry (ICT), including areas such as mobile and fixed telecommunications, ICT equipment and semiconductor manufacturing, software and application development, and R&D in the ICT industry. Prior to joining the EIB he worked as a technology transformation consultant at Capgemini Consulting, and before that managed a research project for the Finnish Foundation for Technology Development and Innovation. Jussi holds a doctorate degree in Economics and Business Administration from Turku School of Economics in Finland, for which he currently acts as a docent in areas of internationalisation and network management of high technology firms. Jussi has contributed to several books as well as published articles in several highly ranked academic journals related to management, R&D and product development in high technology context.

September 2011